A Social History of Cycling Alan Naber

This talk begins with the first attempts at two-wheeled travel and the ability to balance on two wheels in the early 1800s. Then follows the development of bicycles in the mid-1800s. In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, a large part of the population adopted bicycles because they became a convenient mode of transport in Europe and the USA. For Australia the changes in urban

Alan started his cycling career with his school on the quiet roads of England and Australia. In the early 1900s, roads were too rough for Germany, Holland and retired Alan Naber the

Alan Naber will use his bicycle to take to work in both Central Africa, where the bicycle is a vital part of life for many people. Now Alan Naber is a member of the Over-55 Cycling Club and
